About Town

And Country

By TIMOTHEUS T.

MRS. OVERTON HALL, who resides north of Harco a short distance, has a memorandum book that was a gift to her mother, Mrs. Ersia Jarrell, from a former employer.

The book, which has its first entry Nov. 6, 1856, one hundred years ago last fall, was kept by a man who apparently had a variety of abilities. He lists $8 collected for two days work on the steamboat, "Silver Heels," $4 for building two games, and 10 cents a panel for 138 panels of fence.

Another entry made reads "On the road to ruin, married Nov. 6."

Expenditures listed included 65 cents for calico, 50 cents for drawers, 10 cents for patch on boots, $6 for bedstead, $14 for bureau, $6 for chairs, $11 for stove, $10 for mattress, $3.50 for table, $2.20 for four bushels of potatoes, 25 cents for two dozen eggs, 50 cents for bucket and broom, 171 pounds of beef at four cents a pound, and a drink of whiskey for a nickel.

ADDITION: Several days back this department carried a list of southern Illinois natives who are members of the University of Illinois faculty.

The list was obtained from the university information service and Mrs. S. M. Farrar reveals a name that was left out.

Omitted was Mildred Bonnell, associate professor of home economics in charge of restaurant management work in the home economics department.

Miss Bonnell is the daughter of the late Clarence Bonnell, HTHS faculty member and author, and Mrs. Bonnell.

WHAT THE MAGAZINES are saying:

Electrical World: Among new uses for aluminum is a room-sized rug woven of aluminum that gives off radiant heat. There is also an aluminum foil wallpaper that radiates heat. Still in the future is the addition of a "cool circuit" for the rug so that it can supplement year-round air conditioning.

Electronics: While field-checking color-TV, a network engineer discovered that the most ghost-free spot in New York City is Woodlawn cemetery.

Also from Electronics: Doctors at St. Thomas' hospital in London are now being paged by means of a transistor receiver which clips to a pocket like a fountain pen. The device eliminates loudspeakers, bells and flashing lights along hospital corridors.

Chemical Week: Of all shoes made in the U. S., about 65 per cent now have synthetic soles as compared to about 20 per cent in 1946.

Indicate Further Inspection of Area As Possible Prison Site

Powell Protests Slight to Section By Federal Teams

Further inspection of southeastern Illinois as a possible site for a federal prison was indicated today.

And people of the area were urged to send telegrams to the director of the Bureau of Prisons and the U. S. senators from Illinois, Everett M. Dirksen and Paul Douglas, asking that this area of the state be considered seriously for the prison. On Thursday of this week a two-man inspection team visited a proposed site on the Ohio river in the Sherrillville area of Pope and Hardin counties. It was learned that this trip into southeastern Illinois was made only after a call was made to Washington asking why this proposal had been ignored.

After the call was made, a team that had been inspecting sites in western Kentucky and Tennessee was dispatched from Paducah to look at the site.

Another southeastern Illinois site, the J. D. Barter proposal about 16 miles south of Harrisburg in Hardin and Pope counties, has never been inspected.

Yesterday, it was learned, State Representative Paul Powell of Vennet telephoned Congressman Kenneth J. Gray, protesting the way southeastern Illinois was being slighted by inspection teams.

J. D. Barter said Powell told him that Gray promised to get the inspection team back into this area. The team was said to be on a train en route back to Washington when the call was made.

Barter today said that he was not pressing for the committee to select his site, that anywhere in southeastern Illinois would please him.

However, he urged the public to start sending messages to the proper people in Washington to try to get the U. S. Bureau of Prisons to consider seriously the southeastern part of the state.

Five Alaskan Miners Trapped

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UP)—Rescue crews fought an unrelenting battle today to reach five men entombed deep in a coal mine by a violent explosion.

Workers battled their way inch by inch down the 1,000-foot mine slope at Jonesville, Alaska, 65 miles north of here but at last report were still only 35 feet from the mine entrance.

The men were believed trapped at the 150-foot level.

Several cave-ins near the mine entrance slowed the rescue effort Friday and hopes that the men would be found alive dimmed by the hour.

Relatives, friends and co-workers of the miners clustered around the mine entrance Friday, unmindful of the 5 to 10 above zero weather.

The force of the blast shortly after 2 p. m. EST Friday ripped a large ventilating fan from its housing deep in the mine choking off a large part of the mine's fresh air supply.

Chou, Bulganin Join In Blast At Ike Doctrine

Red Chinese Premier Returns to Asia After Soviet Talks

LONDON (UP)—Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai flew back to Asia today to resume the tour he interrupted to put out the fires in Moscow's East European backyards.

Radio Moscow said Chou arrived this morning in Tashkent, capital of the Uzbek Soviet Republic. He is en route to Kabul, Afghanistan.

Chou broke off his tour for urgent consultations in Moscow with Soviet leaders and a swing through restive Poland and Hungary. Communist sources in London said his mission insured victory for Soviet Communist Party Boss Nikita S. Khrushchev over the diehard Stalinist elements in the Kremlin hierarchy.

Before leaving Moscow Friday, Chou joined with Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin in blasting the Eisenhower Doctrine for the Middle East and the West in general.

In a joint communique, they promised "necessary support" to Middle East countries in resisting the "colonial policies" of the Eisenhower Doctrine. The communique did not specify the form of this assistance.

The 2,500-word communique followed the usual Communist propaganda line in denouncing the United States, Britain and France for seeking to undermine the unity of the "socialist camp."

It demanded Britain, France and Israel pay reparations for the damages caused by their "aggressive action" against Egypt.

The United States was pictured as seeking "world wide domination" and conducting a "policy of aggression and preparing for war." Nevertheless, the communique said China and Russia want "peaceful coexistence" with the United States.

New Jersey Governor Robert Meyner To Wed Helen Dani Stevenson Today

OBERLIN, Ohio (UP)—Helen (Dani) Stevenson, a 28-year-old statuesque brunette and distant cousin to Adlai Stevenson, becomes the first lady of New Jersey today.

Robert B. Meyner, New Jersey's 48-year-old Democratic governor, and the blue-eyed daughter of Oberlin College President William E. Stevenson, exchange wedding vows at 4 p. m. EST.

The single ring, open church ceremony, was to be performed in his native First Congregational Church on the campus here where their romance began.

The couple first met when Meyner spoke to the college's Democratic mock political convention last May.

Later, the two dated in New York when Dani went there to work in Adlai's political headquarters. They announced their engagement in November.

The wedding rehearsal dinner was held Friday night and more than 55 out of town friends and relatives attended. The menu included filet mignon and champagne.

Among the gay guests was Stevenson, who arrived in Cleveland earlier by plane. He hugged Dani and chatted with prominent Democrats from New Jersey.

Stevenson, twice Democratic presidential nominee, shunned reporters, saying he didn't want to take any of "the spotlight" away from Dani.

The former Illinois governor, a cousin to the bride, by marriage on her mother's side, gave Dani a gold lorgnette chain, set with pearls, as a wedding present. It belonged to his mother and Dani wears it as a bracelet.

Mrs. William O. Causin of Tacoma, will be on hand.

The White House said Mr. and Mrs. Eisenhower, accompanied by their son and daughter-in-law, Maj. and Mrs. John Eisenhower, will attend special Sunday services at 9 a. m. EST at National Presbyterian Church. The Nixons also will attend.

Mr. Eisenhower and Nixon will drive back to the White House together and take their oath of office in the East Room at about 10:30 a. m. The vice president will be sworn in first.

Chief Justice Earl Warren will administer the oath to Mr. Eisenhower both Sunday and Monday.

Ingrid Bergman Arrives in U. S.

NEW YORK (UP)—Ingrid Bergman came back to the United States today for a whirlwind visit that ended seven years of self-imposed exile resulting from her love affair with Roberto Rossellini.

The 39-year-old academy award-winning actress left America as Mrs. Peter Lindstrom in 1949 at the height of her career. She returned this morning as Mrs. Rossellini to accept the New York film critics' best actress award. It was rumored that she is in line for another Oscar.

She was radiant as she stepped off a plane from Paris at the New York International Airport at 7:40 a. m. CST for a Hollywood-style welcome from fans and film moguls anxious to woo her back to America permanently. No echo of the public indignation roused by her torrid romance with the Italian film director, whom she married in 1950 after bearing a son, marred the occasion.

However, she told reporters on her departure from Paris Friday night that she had no intention of uprooting Rossellini and their three children to come to America to live. She said she was interested in acting in the United States again only "if a good enough part came along, but only for a short stay."

Permits Nation To Sever Ties With Britain

Four Arab Nations Discuss Eisenhower Doctrine, Other Issues

CAIRO (UP)—Leaders of the four-power Arab "neutral bloc" signed an agreement today permitting Jordan to sever its last remaining ties with Britain.

The agreement, signed by leaders of Egypt, Syria, Saudi Arabia and Jordan, will provide Jordan with a $5 million dollar yearly subsidy to replace Britain's long-term financial aid agreement. The Arab agreement will run 10 years.

Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser, Saudi Arabia's King Saud, Syrian Premier Sabri El Assali and young King Hussein of Jordan signed the new pact at the closing session of a two-day round of "summit" conferences.

Completes "Neutralist Bloc"

Jordan announced last week it was prepared to renounce the British agreement which provided an annual subsidy of $35,140,000 in return for the right to keep British bases in Jordan.

Today's agreement ended months-long efforts by Egypt, Saudi Arabia and Syria to win Jordan as a full member of the "neutralist bloc" of Arab states opposing the northern tier Baghdad Pact, which embraces the Moslem nations of Turkey, Iran, Iraq and Pakistan.

Under the agreement, Egypt and Saudi Arabia each will contribute 14 million dollars a year in financial aid and Syria will contribute 7 million.

Today's announcement also said the four leaders discussed the Eisenhower Doctrine, Israel's refusal to withdraw from the Gaza Strip and Gulf of Aqaba areas, the Suez Canal, the Anglo-French and Israeli attack on Egypt, Jordanian affairs and the Arab stand on Middle East problems in general.

Leaves for Naples

King Saud left Cairo by plane for Naples, Italy, on the way to his state visit in Washington at the invitation of President Eisenhower. He is expected to arrive in Washington later this month.

The Arab "big four" meeting was held as Russia and Communist China promised "necessary support" to the Middle East as a counter-move to the Eisenhower Doctrine. It was not known if the Communist proposal was included in the discussions.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

In all this Job sinned not, nor charged God foolishly.—Job 1:22.
Some think the story of Job to be the oldest book of the Bible. The scene is laid in the East possibly in Sumer, whence Abraham came. If it is so old, then the first prophecy of the coming of Christ appears in the book. I know that my redeemer liveth.

(A round-up of the week's work, activities, and observations at the University of Illinois Dixon Springs Experiment Station near Robbs in Southern Illinois, prepared by the Station's staff)

If you raise beef calves, ask yourself, "What is most important to high returns for my business?" Like the corn farmer who answer probably will be, "high yields." High yields in the beef business means heavy calves at sale or weaning time.

Within any one herd whether your herd or my herd, with your pastures or my pastures, your management or my management—time is most important to heavy

Brucellosis Control Due to Hit Peak in '57

DIXON SPRINGS—All livestock owners have a chance this year to cooperate in completely wiping out brucellosis.

Dr. M. E. Mansfield, extension veterinarian on the staff of the University of Illinois Dixon Springs Experiment Station, reminds owners that all cattle in Illinois must by law be under some type of brucellosis control program by July this year.

Past control measures have cut brucellosis cases to the point where complete eradication is possible. Dr. Mansfield says. Both federal and state governments are looking forward to the time when they can accredit both areas and states as brucellosis-free.

All phases of the livestock industry—producers, processors, consumers and regulatory officials—are interested in eradicating brucellosis because it has been recognized as a menace to public health and as a source of economic loss to the industry, according to the Station veterinarian. The success of the eradication program has been due to their almost unanimous support.

A basic control measure has been the annual blood test for all animals. Other practices that have played a big part in the success of the program so far have been the milk ring test for dairy herds and the use of Strain 19 vaccine in calves. Nearly all the expense of these services to livestock owners is paid from state and federal funds. Any livestock owner can become eligible for these benefits by submitting his cattle for test and agreeing to dispose of all infected animals.

As in any disease control program, the next step is reasonable sanitation and good herd management. Newly purchased animals should never be allowed to join the rest of the herd until they have been blood-tested and found negative.

You can get more information on this brucellosis eradication program from your county farm adviser, your local veterinarian or state livestock sanitary officials.

weaning weights. Since weaning time is usually set by the end of the grazing season the only way to gain time is by having earlier calves.

Opinions differ as to the best time for calving. Some producers in southern Illinois say December, some say January, some say February. At Dixon Springs the cow herd has been bred to start calving about mid-February—a month to a month-and-a-half away from pasture season.

Early-Calving Cows

Only last week, Station Superintendent Bob Webb warned a group of Johnson county beef producers that early calving cows need more feed than later ones. On-pasture calving during March, April and May is simple. The flush, spring pastures very adequately nourish the milking beef cow. Wintering the pregnant beef cow is also relatively easy. But Bob pointed out that following calving the cow's daily requirement for dry matter is increased by one-third, for protein by one-half, and for total digestible nutrients by one-third. Twenty pounds of fescue hay is enough for a dry, pregnant cow. But when she calves the fescue will need to be increased and supplemented with protein supplied by either legume hay or one of the oil meals. Bob encouraged the production of early calves, but emphasized that healthy, heavy calves demand that we recognize the need for better feeding of the cow.

Herd on Fescue

The cow herd on the Station has been running on fescue pastures all winter up until the second week in January when the feeding of hay and corn silage was started for half of the herd. Feed bunks have been moved onto the pastures. George Marik, cattle researcher, informs us that pasture remains for the other half of the herd—enough to last without feeding until February at least. The excellent condition of the cow herd on these pastures is best testimony for Bob Webb's statement that a full feed of fescue is enough for the pregnant beef cow.

Fewer Corn Borers Threaten Canning Crops

URBANA—From one-half to one-ninth as many corn borers are overwintering in state canning crop areas now as a year ago. W. H. Luckman, entomologist with the Illinois Natural History Survey, reported these figures to those attending the Illinois Canners school last week at the Urbana-Lincoln Hotel.

Luckman said that damage by first-generation corn borers would probably be less severe in 1957, particularly if the weather is unfavorable. But if borers should appear, Luckman said farmers might want to use granulated DDT for corn borer control.

Research with use of the granules, a recent development in insecticides, was carried on extensively in borer control experiments in 1956. These granules look like small grains of sand but are heavy enough to roll down the corn leaves into the whorl and leaf axils, where many of the corn borers are located.

Results in controlling first-generation borers with DDT granules were so favorable that Luckman now recommends using them in both ground and aerial applications. These two methods controlled the borers equally well.

For second-generation corn borers and corn earworms attacking sweet corn, the DDT granules were not so effective as DDT oil sprays, Luckman reported.

By Albert Meyer
Too often farmers neglect the job of collecting samples properly for testing the soil in fields where fertilizer applications are contemplated. This may be due to carelessness or to a lack of know-how about the methods for gathering composite representative samples.

The value of good sampling and impartial testing ought to be obvious. Only with the results of such work known can the farmer intelligently apply the amounts and kinds of fertilizer needed. It is a waste of hard-earned money to apply fertilizers for which no need is indicated.

Sampling a field properly isn't a difficult job. An information sheet as a guide usually may be obtained from the county farm adviser's office. Simple supplies, besides the information sheet, include soil cartons and a sampling tool. Soil cartons may be available at the farm adviser's office, but if not, the farmer may use pint-size ice cream cartons or boxes such as are used for storing produce in home freezers.

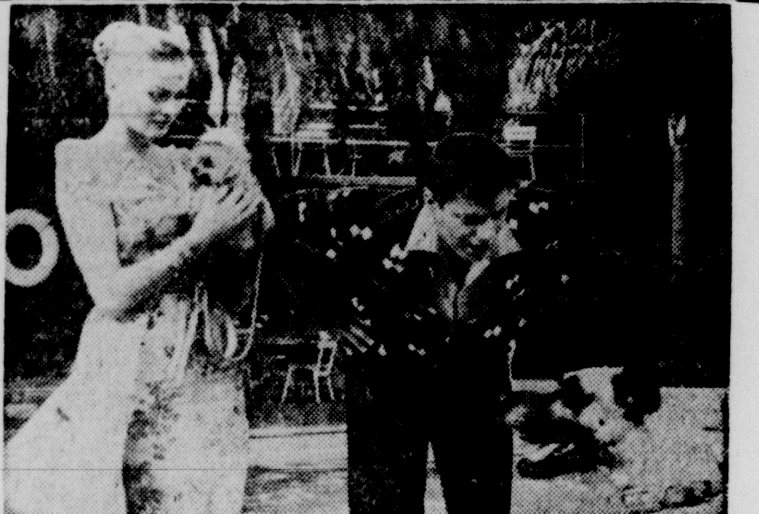

A small sampling auger or soil tube is the handiest gadget for taking the soil sample, but a spade or large trowel may be used. When using a spade for collecting samples, first dig a V-shaped hole to plowing depth and then remove a slice of soil one-half inch thick from one side of the hole. Trim soil away from each side of the slice until there is but a thin ribbon down the center of the spade face. Place this ribbon of soil in a clean pail with 10 or 15 other samples from a specified area of the field having similar land characteristics, and mix thoroughly to form a composite sample. Put a half-pint from each composite sample in a carton and label, discarding the rest of the soil.

Perhaps part of the above discussion is slightly ahead of the story. Before starting to take samples the farmer needs to divide the farm into fields, and the fields into areas of five or ten acres which have a similar type of plant growth, a similar past management history, or similar topography and soil appearance. For example, different sampling areas would be set up for level upland, gently sloping, more steeply sloping, and bottomland parts of a field.

From each of the areas take 15 or 20 samples spaced rather uniformly to form a composite sample. Avoid sampling the unusual soil areas, such as dead furrows, back furrows, terrace channels, windbreaks, old fence lines, marshy spots, forested areas, places near lime rock roads, spots where band fertilizer may have been used the past season, or near the boundary between slopes and bottomlands, because these are not representative of the field and will not give a soil test that is reliable for fertility applications.

Having roughly determined the areas for each composite sample, prepare a sketch or map of the field and make sure that the soil sample cartons are labeled the same as the field map areas from which each composite sample was taken. If this is done, the returns from the soil testing laboratory will give the farmer an accurate knowledge of how to match the information with the field in applying his limestone and fertilizers. Farm advisers are a reliable source of information on where to send soil samples for testing.

Pasture land intended for improvement needs soil samples taken only from the top two inches of the soil.

Multiflora Rose 'Living Fence' Enthuses Farmers, Conservationists

By WARREN STROTHER
United Press Staff Correspondent

Illinois farmers and conservationists are becoming more enthusiastic than ever about the multiflora rose. State Forester E. E. Nuttall reported today.

The multiflora rose isn't a rose at all, at least in the commonly accepted concept. It's valued more for its thorns and dense growth than for its flowers, although it does have a white blossom in spring.

In any event Conservation Department nurseries have received orders for almost 800,000 multiflora rose seedlings, and have about a million seedlings left. Demand for the seedlings for planting next spring is still heavy.

Most common use of the shrub is as a "living fence," where farmers plant them 12 to 18 inches apart. In four or five years the shrub creates a wall of heavy foliage and thorns about eight feet high and nearly as wide.

Plant in Early Spring

Cattle and other livestock do not appreciate its thorns, and hence aren't apt to attempt to crash their way through it. And for the farmer who likes to help nature provide cover for small game and birds, multiflora roses can't be beat.

Nuttall said the best time for planting the seedlings is in early spring, when the ground is workable. It grows reasonably fast in good soil, and needs little care.

The tough, thorny shrub grows high enough to act as a wind break, too, and because it is a shrub instead of a tree, it doesn't have far reaching roots to take soil nutrients from adjacent crops. That's one reason it has largely replaced the Osage orange, a tree, in popularity for use as a fence.

Use on Highways
Illinois motorists probably have noted clumps of the thorny shrubs scattered along the right-of-way as they travel the state's highways, and more are being planted by highway engineers.

That's to provide a "cushion" in case an automobile leaves the highway and heads for a crash. Highway engineers also plan to experiment with the shrub on the median stripes which divide divided highways to prevent glare from headlights from approaching vehicles and to more completely separate the traffic strips.

Farmers who have available land adjacent to the highways are also encouraged to permit the Highway Division to plant beds of the shrub about 100 feet back from the pavement, for use as snow fences.

The Highway Division will be glad to plant the shrubs if it is permitted to do so. The multiflora rose also is important in erosion control on rights-of-way.

Gidcumb, Johnson Marriage Vows Read At Macedonia Missionary Baptist Church

Mr. and Mrs. Russell L. Johnson

In a simple but impressive ceremony performed Saturday, Dec. 22, by the Rev. Calvin Smith, pastor of the Macedonia Missionary Baptist church of Mitchellville, Miss Shirley Gidcumb became the bride of Russell L. Johnson.

The double ring ceremony took place at 7 p. m. at the home of the bride's parents.

Miss Gidcumb is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gidcumb, Carrier Mills RFD 2, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Johnson of Herod.

The bride's gown was exquisitely designed in lace and satin. The sweetheart neckline was trimmed with sequins and the tapered sleeves came to a point over the hand. The fitted bodice of satin was over a full lace skirt with a pleated tulle panel in front. Her fingertip veil of white tulle was trimmed with pearl-like beads and a scalloped design achieved through the manipulation of the tulle. She also wore a strand of pearls and carried a colonial bouquet of mums and snowdrift chrysanthemums with knotted streamers of white satin.

Miss Shirley Temple, close friend of the bride, was bridesmaid, wearing an aqua wool jersey dress and a corsage of white mums.

Larry Johnson, Elgin, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

Mrs. Gidcumb chose for her daughter's wedding a charcoal brown dress with gold accessories and the bridegroom's mother wore a navy dress with pink accessories.

The ceremony was performed in the presence of the immediate family of the bride and groom. Others present were Mrs. Calvin Smith and son, Calvin C., of Pascola, Mo., and Tommy Edward of Jacksonville, Fla.

Immediately after the wedding cake and punch were served.

The bride is a graduate of the Harrisburg Township high school and is now employed as stenographer in the office of the Illinois Public Aid Commission in Harrisburg.

The bridegroom is a graduate of the Pope County Community high school of Golconda and is employed by the Beecher Williams construction company near Harrisburg.

The newlyweds now reside in an apartment at 411 North Main in Harrisburg.

Civil War Veteran Is Honored On His 109th Birthday

CRESTVIEW, Fla. — "Uncle Bill" Lundy says his birthdays are getting better all the time.

Some 2,000 persons turned out to honor the Civil War veteran on his 109th birthday Friday.

Many were pretty girls who came to greet him with kisses.

They also gave him 109 silver dollars and a birthday cake with 109 candles. But Lundy nearly ignored these, indicating he came for the "kissin'."

Lundy joined the Alabama Home Guard in 1865, the last year of the war, as a boy of 16. He said he fired a few shots at "the Yankees" without hitting anyone. He says now he is glad he never killed anyone.

"They weren't such a bad lot," he said.

Adult Tests at SIU February 1-2 for High School Diplomats

CARBONDALE, Ill. — Adults seeking high school diplomas may take tests of General Educational Development Feb. 1-2 at Southern Illinois University according to Dr. Jack W. Graham, testing supervisor.

To qualify for a diploma, the person to be tested must bring a letter from his high school principal indicating that a diploma will be granted if he successfully completes the tests.

A day and a half of testing is required, beginning at 8 a. m. Friday, Feb. 1.

GED tests are offered without charge at Southern the first Friday and Saturday of each month.

GOP to Name Party Chairman

WASHINGTON — The Republican National Committee assembled today to talk about ways of winning the 1958 congressional elections and who will head up the campaign as party chairman.

The committee members—gathered here to attend President Eisenhower's second inauguration—scheduled two closed sessions during the day.

They will meet again Tuesday to elect a successor to GOP national chairman Leonard W. Hall, who has submitted his resignation, effective Feb. 1. Hall planned to appoint a seven-man subcommittee to confer with Mr. Eisenhower, probably Tuesday, about election of a new chairman.

H. Meade Alocrin Jr., Connecticut national committeeman, was still regarded in informed quarters as the probable choice for the job despite the development of some opposition to him.

The new NBCTV version of "Tonight" is planning a series built around all 23 winners of the "Playboy" magazine jazz poll. Initial entries will be J. J. Johnson, Gerry Mulligan, Chet Baker and Bud Shank.

Wintry Air Puffs Into Florida; Warmer In North Central Section

By United Press
A belt of wintry air that has coated most of the nation with a layer of frost puffed into Florida today as it departed from the north-central area.

Temperatures scooped up to 10 to 20 degrees higher early today than Friday in a large section of land extending from the Southern Plains into the upper Mississippi Valley states. The cold air, however, penetrated into hitherto balmy Florida. Tampa shivered in a nighttime climate of 36 degrees, and Cross City, Fla., residents were victims of 20 degree cold.

In contrast, Cut Bank, Mont., usually one of the chilliest spots in the country, reported a relatively warm reading of 27 degrees. The mercury at Fargo, N. D., soared to 24 degrees Friday night, in contrast to its reading of 4 degrees the day before. Corpus Christi, Tex., also warmed up quickly. The night's air climbed to 50 after near freezing temperatures the night before.

Florida was not alone in its cold spasms, however, as most of the eastern third of the country continued to suffer in the unusually cold air. Zero readings were common in parts of the Great Lakes states as well as along the Northern Atlantic Coast.

The remainder of the nation had relatively dry weather, but near zero temperatures were still reported in the Northern and Central states.

Elvis Presley Urges Two Missing Girls To Return Home

CHICAGO (AP) — Two missing teenage girls have been urged by their idol, Elvis Presley, to return home to their mother.

The singer made the plea at the request of police after the girls, Barbara Grimes, 15, and her 13-year-old sister, Patricia, disappeared from their Chicago home Dec. 28 after watching a Presley movie for the 11th time.

The youthful rock'n'roll enthusiasts were told by the singer "if you are good Presley fans, you'll go home and ease your mother's worries."

The youngsters were reportedly spotted in Nashville, Tenn., and police feared they might be on a pilgrimage to Memphis, Presley's home town.

If this were true, the girls would merely be following the example of some 50 other runaway maidens picked up by police in the Memphis area during the past month.

tral Rockies, as well as in the Northern Plateau.

The week-long cold spell has been responsible for at least 94 deaths, a United Press survey revealed. Most of the victims perished in flash fires. One person died every hour as 24 people were killed in blazes in one day. Of the dead, 16 of them were children. North Carolina had the grim leadership in the fatality count with 16 deaths.

School Upheld In Expelling Negro Student

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — U. S. District Judge Hobart Grooms ruled Thursday the University of Alabama was within its rights in expelling its first and only Negro student, Mrs. Autherine Lucy Foster.

Grooms said the university was not in contempt of court when it expelled Mrs. Foster, whose appearance on the Tuscaloosa campus caused three days of race riots, for making charges against the university she was unable to prove.

The school's board of trustees ejected the Negro woman last February because she had charged the trustees and other university officials had conspired with rioters to force her from the campus. The charges were later dropped in court.

Mrs. Foster, now married to a Negro minister and living in Texas, was admitted to the university on a court order issued by Grooms.

She was suspended several days later because of the race riots. At a court hearing Grooms ordered her immediate reinstatement, but the trustees expelled her hours later because of the conspiracy charge.

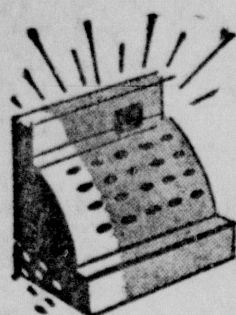

Arthur Shores, Birmingham Negro attorney for Mrs. Foster, claimed the expulsion violated the readmittance order. But the university, which was upheld by Grooms, contended the expulsion was a disciplinary action divorced from the court order.

In Memoriam
In loving memory of Douglas
Sweat who passed away 4 years ago, Jan. 20th, 1953:
Today recalls sad memories
Of a loved one gone to rest,
Those who think of him today
Are the ones who loved him best.
Days of sadness still come o'er us,
But memory keeps him near us,
Though he died 4 years ago.
Sadly missed by wife and children. 171-1

COUNTERPANE CATHEDRAL

There was a man who had stopped going to church because, he said, "Church doesn't make me feel any nearer to God."

One night he stepped into the children's room to kiss them good night. And suddenly he felt as though he were in church. There was a pillowed altar and a devout congregation in prayer. Yet he didn't feel any nearer to God.

And in that moment he learned the truth that every soul must learn; religion is not some outer force that brings God close to a man. Religion is man's inner yearning which reaches up and discovers how near God is.

And so, from the example of his children, he learned how to find the faith which had eluded him. And, finding it, he returned to church to share with other Christians the rich experience of worship . . . to receive the spiritual gifts of Word and Sacrament . . . to serve Christ in the vital, challenging work of the Church.

He knows that in church—or in a moonlit nursery—God is near those who want Him near!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

'Gospel Righteousness'

Matthew 5:13-20, 43-48

MEMORY VERSE: "For I say unto you, that except your righteousness shall exceed the righteousness of the scribes and Pharisees, ye shall in no case enter into the kingdom of heaven." (Matt. 5:20)

INTRODUCTION—In the sight of God you are important. That is the principal that makes Christianity attractive. No person is lost in the crowd. God knows all about you. Most of all, He cares for you. That is really something! To think that God knows all about you and, yet, he loves and cares for you. If everyone else knew about you all that God does, how many friends would you have? Yes, I repeat, God loves you and cares for you, even though he does know all about you.

We should constantly strive to be better. We should daily try to please God by becoming more like His Son Jesus Christ. Jesus is not only our great and wonderful Savior, but he is, also, our example.

I CHRISTIANS ARE LIKE SALT (V. 13)

Jesus said that his followers are "the salt of the earth." Now, salt, when applied to meat, fights all the germs that would attract and destroy that meat. Likewise, a Christian will fight sin and corruption which destroys all that is worth while. Sin tears down lives and homes and everything else it touches. The real Christian puts on the "whole armour of God" and fights sin.

Salt, also, preserves. So does a Christian. A Christian will protect and preserve all that is good and holy in God's sight.

II A CHRISTIAN'S LIGHT SHINES (V. 14-16)

Jesus one time said "I am the light of the world." Here he says that Christians are "the light of the world." We reflect the light of Christ, if we are really Christians.

The moon does not really shine at night of its own accord. It merely reflects the light of the sun. A mirror, held so as to catch the sun's rays, does not really shine. It reflects the sun's rays. So; a Christian reflects the light of Christ in this sin darkened world.

III A CHRISTIAN MAGNIFIES CHRIST (V. 15-20)

Jesus wants us to "let our light shine."
